

Tax Alert

Beware of email scams

November 1, 2007

The Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) is warning the public to beware of email scams that are falsely identified as coming from the CRA. The CRA advises individuals who receive the unsolicited emails to delete them immediately. Do not go to the websites listed in the messages as some of these sites contain harmful software.

For more information on how taxpayers can protect themselves, please visit the Important Security Information on the CRA's web site at <http://www.cra-arc.gc.ca/eservices/tax/epassservices/important-e.html> or <http://www.cra-arc.gc.ca/newsroom/alerts/2007/a070104-e.html>.

For information about this and other fraud schemes, or to report deceptive telemarketing activity, visit www.phonebusters.com, send an email to info@phonebusters.com, or call 1-888-495-8501 (toll free).

This document is also available for download in .pdf format.

For media information:

Béatrice Fénelon
Media relations
613-941-6269

Canada Revenue
Agency

Agence du revenu
du Canada

Canada