2015-2016

Message from the Principal Clerk of Committees

Committees are at the core of the legislative and policy review work of the Senate, and every year well over a thousand Canadians contribute to their work by appearing as witnesses. Other Canadians follow the work of committees by watching the webcasts or CPAC broadcasts, or by reading the many committee documents, including transcripts of meetings, minutes and reports on the parliamentary website. Senators spend an enormous amount of time in committee outside of the sittings of the Senate itself, and the Committees Directorate is very proud to provide the administrative and procedural support required to achieve committee objectives.

Activity levels in 2015-2016 reflect the effect of having a fiscal year interrupted by a dissolution. The new parliamentary calendar began again in earnest at the end of January. Nonetheless, as can be seen in the numbers of meetings held, witnesses heard, and hours spent in meetings, senators and their committees were quite busy. The individual committee summaries included in this annual report demonstrate that a great deal of valuable work was conducted by committees in the course of 2015-2016.

Of note with respect to the workload for senators and the staff of the Directorate, the Senate and House of Commons agreed to the creation of the Special Joint Committee on Physician-Assisted Dying which conducted extensive preliminary hearings into the issue and reported its recommendations immediately prior to the presentation of related legislation. The Senate itself created a Special Committee on Senate Modernization, and the Standing Committee on Internal Economy, Budgets and Administration (CIBA) created a number of sub-committees in order to manage its workload.

During the summer of 2015 and the months leading up to the Speech From the Throne in December, Committees Directorate personnel were actively updating financial policy manuals, procedural documents, background material and public documents. In addition, a number of clerks were assigned to special projects with the Law Clerk's Office, CIBA, Strategic Planning and Audit Office, and the Working Group on Senators' Services, where much of the groundwork was laid to create a portal to services for senators' offices available within the procedural sector. Expected to be rolled out in the 2016-2017 fiscal year, the Parliamentary Business Portal is intended to match the success and utility of the Office Portal by making the services and information from the procedural sector easy to access and easy to understand.

With full work plans, active orders of reference and a number of new voices in the Senate, there is no doubt 2016-2017 will be a busy one for committees.

Mission Statement

The Senate of Canada, as part of the Parliament of Canada, is an integral part of the federal legislative process. As a legislature, the Senate has established a number of committees to deal with the examination of bills, estimates and special studies on various subjects. The Committees Directorate serves those committees in the areas of administration, parliamentary procedure and information relating to committee tasks and objectives. In the fulfillment of its mission, the Senate Committees Directorate has the responsibility to:

- ✧ Provide superior service to all senators serving on committees;
- ✧ Perform duties in a courteous, professional and impartial manner;
- ✧ Respect the principle of confidentiality working with senators and in supporting committees;
- ✧ Promote the public image of the Senate in particular, and Parliament in general;
- ✧ Observe the rules, regulations and policies of the Senate;
- ✧ Develop human resources; and
- ✧ Encourage innovation to improve its operations.

Overview of Activities and Expenditures

Operating Expenditures *

During fiscal year 2015-2016, the directorate provided administrative, procedural, informational and other support to Senate committees, which include:

- ✧ 15 standing committees (and 1 subcommittee);
- ✧ 2 standing joint committees (composed of members of the Senate and of the House of Commons);
- ✧ 1 special committee;
- ✧ 1 special joint committee (composed of members of the Senate and of the House of Commons); and
- ✧ the Committee of Selection.

The size of committees, their general areas of study and the number of members required for quorum are set under rules 12-3, 12-6 and 12-7 of the Rules of the Senate.

The Standing Committee on Internal Economy, Budgets and Administration and the Standing Committee on Rules, Procedures and the Rights of Parliament are administered through other offices.

Committee Activities

Committees account for much of the activity of the Senate. On average, over 50 bills are examined and 50 special studies are undertaken each year. While all committees must respect the Rules of the Senate and the Senate Administrative Rules, there are significant variations between committees with respect to how they undertake, organize and carry out their work. In addition, some committees focus almost exclusively on legislation, while others give special studies most of their attention.

* All data contained in this report was extracted from the Journals of the Senate, the proceedings of Senate committees and the records of the Senate Finance and Procurement Directorate.

Consultations

Every year, a number of trips are undertaken to gather testimony at local and regional levels. Committees hold formal public hearings in locations throughout Canada, and undertake more informal fact-finding trips both within Canada and abroad. Committee travel provides senators with the opportunity to better familiarize themselves with the issues they are studying and to obtain evidence and information that cannot be obtained in Ottawa.

When committees travel outside of Canada to inquire into matters, the meetings are called fact-finding missions, meaning they are not considered official proceedings and no transcripts are published. The information gathered, however, is still valid to the committee's inquiry and can be used in a report of the committee.

Parliamentary Website

The Committees Directorate regularly reassesses its presence on the parliamentary website (www.parl.gc.ca) to ensure that it provides useful information and is user-friendly. We value the effectiveness of this medium for giving Canadians access to the work of Senate committees.

All committee reports, press releases, and appropriate directorate documents are converted into HTML and/or PDF and posted on the website. Information about Senate committees, including the date, time and place of meetings, expected witnesses, and whether the meeting will be webcast and/or video recorded for broadcasting on CPAC, are updated on a regular basis. This information is also shared via the Senate's institutional Twitter account (@SenateCA in English and @SenatCA in French). Furthermore, key directorate documents such as the Annual Report, Fundamentals of Senate Committees, FAQs and the Guide to Participating in a Senate Committee Study are also available online.

Highlights of Special Study Reports

Standing Committee on Aboriginal Peoples

On-Reserve Housing and Infrastructure: Recommendations for Change

(Twelfth Report [final] tabled in the Senate on June 23, 2015;
Sessional Paper No. 2/41- 1300S)

Infrastructure is not just about bricks and mortar. Aging, inadequate and poor infrastructure can have significant negative effects on the social and economic outcomes of communities. In this respect, infrastructure is about meeting the most basic needs of individuals, families and communities – putting a roof over a family's head and making sure that they have clean drinking water. The Standing Senate Committee on Aboriginal Peoples (the committee) began hearing from witnesses about housing and infrastructure needs on reserves in November 2013. The study included visits to communities from coast to coast to see first-hand the challenges and best practices relating to housing and infrastructure.

Since the autumn of 2014, the focus of the committee has been on community infrastructure – roads, water systems, schools, bridges, and community facilities. Infrastructure deficits are not unique to First Nations communities, but the magnitude of this deficit on reserve is particularly striking. Visiting First Nations communities, the committee saw first-hand overflowing sewage lagoons and communities with boil-water advisories which had been in place for over a decade.

Standing Committee on Agriculture and Forestry

The Importance of Bee Health to Sustainable Food Production in Canada

(Ninth Report [final] tabled in the Senate on May 27, 2015;
Sessional Paper No. 2/41-1213S)

It has been predicted that by 2050, nine billion people will need to be fed and crop yields must rise to feed the world's ever-increasing population. Yet it has been said that some current farming practices can be harmful to the very same pollinators that are needed to pollinate the crops we need and therein lies the dilemma.

It was this issue that the committee wished to address when it began its study on bee health and the end result of its work is the report entitled The Importance of Bee Health to Sustainable Food Production in Canada.

Standing Committee on Banking, Trade and Commerce

Digital Currency: You Can't Flip this Coin!

(Twelfth Report [final] tabled in the Senate on June 18, 2015;
Sessional Paper No. 2/41-1281S)

On 25 March 2014, the Senate authorized the Standing Senate Committee on Banking, Trade and Commerce (the committee) to study digital currencies, with a particular focus on the potential risks, threats and advantages of these electronic forms of exchange. The committee's interest in the topic was partially motivated by media reports about bitcoin being used to make and receive payments over the Internet, and comments by witnesses during the then statutory review of the Proceeds of Crime (Money Laundering) and Terrorist Financing Act about trends in the use of the Internet to launder money.

Throughout the study, the committee was reminded that identifying the types of technology that will succeed or fail is difficult – if not impossible – to predict with any accuracy.

Fluctuating Canadian Dollar: What it means for Canadians

(Third Report [interim] tabled in the Senate on March 25, 2016;
Sessional Paper No. 1/42-216S)

The Canadian dollar's exchange rate has a variety of effects on Canadian households and businesses, and on the country's economy. To better understand the types and scope of some of these effects, the Standing Senate Committee on Banking, Trade and Commerce undertook a brief study of the exchange rate in order to hear from experts about reasons for the fluctuations and the implications for Canadians.

The committee heard that while a low exchange rate may lead to Canadian households and businesses paying higher prices for imported goods and services, not all of the consequences of a decrease in the Canadian dollar's exchange rate are negative, and some Canadian households and businesses may benefit. On balance, the value of the Canadian dollar at the time of the committee's hearings was below what witnesses characterized as the "fair value" for the currency in the long term and based on more normal oil prices.

Standing Committee on Energy, the Environment and Natural Resources

Powering Canada's Territories

(Fourteenth Report [final] tabled in the Senate on June 17, 2015;
Sessional Paper No. 2/41-1273S)

The report examined existing territorial energy systems and identified obstacles and opportunities facing each territory in making energy affordable, reliable and sustainable for its residents and businesses. A focus was placed on electricity systems.

As a whole, the committee found electricity systems aging, underperforming and at capacity. Also, the committee observed that territorial communities were highly dependent on diesel generation. The committee also found a lack of financial capacity among utilities and territorial governments to advance major projects due to small rate and tax bases. Utilities face high costs associated with servicing many small remote communities which predominantly rely on diesel generation. Also, energy options are constrained as the territories are not connected to the North American electricity and natural gas grids.

The report makes five recommendations to the federal government to help improve the energy circumstances of the territories.

Standing Committee on Fisheries and Oceans

Volume One – Aquaculture Industry and Governance in Canada
Volume Two – Aquaculture Industry and Governance in Norway and Scotland
Volume Three – An Ocean of Opportunities: Aquaculture in Canada
(Fourteenth Report [final] tabled in the Senate on July 30, 2015)

The central message of the report is that there is an ocean of opportunities for aquaculture in Canada. This country has the world's longest marine coastline, the largest number of freshwater lakes, a diversified aquaculture industry, a rigorous regulatory regime and world-class aquaculture-related research. Canada is, therefore, well positioned to help supply the growing global demand for fish and seafood and to do so in a sustainable manner – environmentally, economically and socially.

The committee supports the goal of doubling Canadian aquaculture production within the next decade. To help achieve this sustainable growth, the committee proposed a set of ten recommendations articulated in five main themes: legislative and regulatory framework; healthy aquacultured fish; healthy and productive ecosystems; research and development; and social licence and public reporting. The most significant recommendation is for Fisheries and Oceans Canada to introduce a Federal Aquaculture Act that responds to the concerns voiced during the committee's hearings and fact-finding and that asserts the full extent of federal jurisdiction.

Standing Committee on Foreign Affairs and International Trade

North American Neighbours: Maximizing Opportunities and Strengthening Cooperation for a more Prosperous Future (Tenth Report [final] tabled in the Senate on June 11, 2015;
Sessional Paper No. 2/41-1256S)

This report presents the views of witnesses and, from the committee's parliamentary perspective, makes recommendations that – once implemented – will assist Canada in maximizing opportunities and strengthening cooperation within North America. Chapter One provides a brief retrospective on the foundations of the relationship among Canada, the United States and Mexico, while Chapter Two focuses on what the committee believes could be an important focus of future efforts to maximize opportunities for Canada; our relationship with Mexico. Recognizing the past, present and – no doubt – future importance of the United States to Canada, Chapter Three explores aspects of the relationship that Canada and Mexico have with the United States, our common neighbour, while Chapter Four identifies additional actions that might be needed as the three countries work towards a new North American relationship.

Expanding Canadian Businesses' Engagement in Foreign Markets: the Role of Federal Trade Promotion Services
(Eleventh Report [interim] tabled in the Senate on June 17, 2015;
Sessional Paper No. 2/41-1274S)

Canadian businesses, products and services continue to meet success in markets around the world. In an increasingly competitive global economy, however, it is critical that the Government of Canada and others continue to offer services that help our companies invest more confidently in foreign markets, connect with new opportunities and partners, and gain access to financing. These services are particularly important to small and medium enterprises (SMEs), for which the costs and risks associated with doing business abroad, could ignore projects showing promise for their exportation potential.

Informed by the input of 28 witnesses from business, finance, industry associations, academia, Canadian crown corporations, the federal government and province-level initiatives, the present report suggests ways in which federal trade promotion initiatives can be implemented in new and innovative ways to better serve the needs of Canadian businesses, and to reinforce the global competitiveness of Canadian products and services.

Securing Canada's Place in Asia-Pacific: a Focus on Southeast Asia

(Twelfth Report [final] tabled in the Senate on June 29, 2015
Sessional Paper No. 2/41-1304S)

The committee examined the rise of China and India in its reports tabled in 2010. The present report finds that the conclusions of those earlier studies continue to hold true, then orients its focus on a region offering further opportunities for Canadian commercial and foreign policy interests. The committee finds that, while Canada must continue to strengthen its relations in India and China, we must also seize emerging opportunities to develop common interests and partnerships in Southeast Asia.

Supported by the testimony of over 90 witnesses heard in over 30 meetings, the analysis, suggestions and more targeted recommendations that follow offer a roadmap towards that end. The overarching message of this report is unambiguous; The Asia-Pacific region is of growing global importance, and Canada cannot afford to miss out.

Taking Action Against Human Rights Violators in Russia

(Second Report [interim] tabled in the Senate on March 25, 2016;
Sessional Paper No. 1/42-217S)

The Standing Senate Committee on Foreign Affairs and International Trade (the "committee") heard testimony on 10 March 2016 from three witnesses about the state of democracy in Russia. Each of the witnesses testified about how his or her particular case demonstrates Russia's weak rule of law and poor record of human rights.

The committee is concerned that there has been no positive movement in strengthening democracy, the rule of law and human rights in Russia and that any investigation into these three cases in particular has not resulted in justice for the victims. After considering these matters, the committee confirms the ongoing validity and urgency of the Senate's 2015 motion. The committee calls on the Government of Canada to condemn all foreign nationals implicated in the Magnitsky Case and to impose sanctions against those individuals and others responsible for violations of internationally recognized human rights in a foreign country, particularly when authorities in that country are unable or unwilling to conduct a thorough, independent and objective investigation of the violations.

Standing Committee on Human Rights

Alert: Challenges and International Mechanisms to Address Cross-Border Child Abduction

(Thirteenth Report [final] tabled in the Senate on July 24, 2015)

In light of the ongoing challenges faced by parents in having their children returned to Canada and enforcing access rights, on 2 December 2013, the Standing Senate Committee on Human Rights agreed to study the issue of international child abductions and the role of The Hague Abduction Convention and other international mechanisms in resolving these disputes. The committee held seven meetings on this topic in the spring and fall of 2014. It heard from a variety of stakeholders who spoke about the many dimensions of this complex problem.

The report begins by explaining The Hague Abduction Convention, as well as, complementary international treaties and processes. Later sections outline Canada's response to international child abduction and issues and options for Canadian parents faced with such a situation. Finally, the report makes several recommendations that the committee hopes will help to deter parents from abducting their children across international borders and facilitate the return of a child to the state of habitual residence, as well as access rights.

Protecting a Generation: Are UNICEF and UNHCR Mandates Meeting the Needs of Syrian Children?

(Fourteenth Report [final] tabled in the Senate on July 24, 2015)

The conflict in Syria has forced an almost unprecedented number of people to flee their homes and seek refuge in neighbouring communities or countries. The committee received permission from the Senate to examine the evolution of the UNHCR and UNICEF's mandates to assess these two organizations' ability to address the needs of children displaced by conflict. Between 26 May 2014 and 7 May 2015, the committee received testimony from approximately 20 witnesses including representatives of the Canadian government, United Nations (UN) organizations, non-governmental organizations (NGOs), the International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement (IRCRCM) and academia. The report highlights the committee's observations and recommendations for the Canadian government based on this testimony.

Few witnesses identified a need to change the mandates of these two organizations and most saw their evolution as a natural adaptation to the constantly evolving reality of modern conflicts. Much of the testimony focused on UNHCR, so the committee's report does as well to a certain extent.

Fast Fashion: Working Conditions in the Garment Industry

(Fifteenth Report [interim] tabled in the Senate on July 24, 2015)

On 12 May 2014, the Standing Senate Committee on Human Rights (the committee) began studying the ready-made garment industry in developing countries under its general order of reference to: Monitor issues relating to human rights and, inter alia, to review the machinery of government dealing with Canada's international and national human rights obligations. At the time of writing, the committee had held three meetings and heard from 13 witnesses from the federal government, the International Labour Organization (ILO), business, academia and non-governmental organizations. This interim report provides a brief overview of their testimony.

Standing Committee on National Security and Defence

Vigilance, Accountability and Security at Canada's Borders

(Sixteenth Report [final] tabled in the Senate on June 18, 2015;

Sessional Paper No. 2/41-1279S)

Following the ten-year anniversary of the establishment of the Canada Border Services Agency (CBSA), the Senate Standing Committee on National Security and Defence commenced a study on how the CBSA performs its responsibilities in identifying and denying entry to inadmissible persons, as well as removing those who have subsequently been found inadmissible after having gained entry to Canada.

To better understand and assess how Citizenship and Immigration Canada (CIC) and the CBSA execute their respective Immigration and Refugee Protection Act (IRPA) responsibilities pertaining to admissibility, the report examines the issue of oversight and accountability of the process of identifying and denying entry to inadmissible persons to Canada. It also examines the CBSA's current approach to the screening and removal of inadmissible persons. The report considers how CBSA obtains, evaluates, shares and acts upon information and intelligence concerning the arrival and departure of people to and from Canada. And finally, it addresses the increasing use of biometric information and the potential utility in detecting inadmissible individuals seeking to gain entry to Canada.

With its findings, the committee made ten recommendations.

Interim Report on the Operational Stress Injuries of Canada's Veterans

(Seventeenth Report [interim] tabled in the Senate on June 18, 2015;

Sessional Paper No. 2/41-1280S)

In the 2nd Session of the 41st Parliament, the Subcommittee initiated a study on the Operational Stress Injuries (OSIs) of Canada's veterans, which includes Post Traumatic Stress Disorders (PTSD). The aim of the study is to examine existing public and private sector programs and services available to serving members and veterans of the Canadian Armed Forces (CAF) and Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) suffering from OSIs as well as to explore new technologies and treatments that are emerging to help those individuals recover from their mental health conditions.

This interim report provides an overview of what the Subcommittee has learned to date (up to and including its meeting on 13 May 2015) as part of its ongoing study and offers some preliminary thoughts on the issue. The report is subdivided into three main sections. The first section summarizes what the Subcommittee has heard about OSIs and their prevalence among Canada's veterans. It provides a description of OSIs, clinical treatments and psychosocial support, resiliency and recovery, as well as research in this field. The second section provides a brief overview of the various programs and services offered by the CAF and the Department of National Defence (DND), the RCMP, and Veterans Affairs Canada (VAC) to serving members and veterans of the CAF as well as RCMP members suffering from OSIs. The last section highlights some areas of concern identified by witnesses thus far in the course of this study.

Countering the terrorist threat in Canada: an interim report

(Eighteenth Report [interim] tabled in the Senate on June 19, 2015)

On June 19, 2014, the Senate authorized the Standing Senate Committee on National Security and Defence "to study and report on security threats facing Canada." In its interim report, the committee examines terrorist recruitment, operations, financing, prosecutions and other aspects of the security threats Canadians face. At a future time, the committee will report on cyberespionage and threats to Canada's critical infrastructure.

The Standing Senate Committee has heard from many witnesses, among them some of the foremost experts on terrorism, radicalization and violent extremism, as well as many individuals with first-hand experience of radicalization in Canada. Over the course of its hearings, the committee undertook a fact-finding mission to Toronto to meet with security and intelligence officials, members of the Toronto Police Service and some representatives of Toronto's ethno-cultural community who are concerned about terrorism and radicalization.

While all members of the committee share a belief in the importance of protecting Canadians against threats of terrorism, differences in how to approach this became clear. Despite great efforts to arrive at a consensus, ultimately, the report contains the conclusions of the majority of members, and Senator Mitchell, Senator Day, and Senator Kenny dissent from the report.

Standing Committee on Official Languages

Aiming Higher: Increasing bilingualism of our Canadian Youth

(Sixth Report [interim] tabled in the Senate on June 16, 2015;
Sessional Paper No. 2/41-1270S)

In the spring of 2013, members of the Standing Senate Committee on Official Languages adopted the terms of reference for a study on the best practices for language policies and second-language learning. This first report of a two-part study is the result of more than two years of study, during which the committee also addressed other important topics, such as examining the language obligations of CBC/Radio-Canada and the recent changes to the immigration system. This report concludes the Canadian part of the study and presents an overview of the practices in place in Canada.

For the Canadian portion of this study, no fewer than 19 meetings were held in Ottawa, at which the committee heard from 51 witnesses. In the report, the committee identifies the primary issues raised by witnesses and draws attention to a series of good practices in place across the country. The committee believes it is important to learn from best practices and to strengthen second-language learning and language policies.

Special Joint Committee on Physician-Assisted Dying

Medical Assistance in Dying: A Patient-Centred Approach

(First Report [final] tabled in the Senate on February 25, 2016;
Sessional Paper No. 1/42-187S)

In February 2015, the Supreme Court of Canada concluded in Carter v. Canada (Attorney General) that in certain circumstances, the provisions of the Criminal Code that prohibit medical assistance in dying violate the rights of individuals that are protected by the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms.

On December 11, 2015, the Senate and the House of Commons passed motions to establish a special joint committee whose mandate was to:

Review the report of the External Panel on Options for a Legislative Response to Carter v. Canada and other recent relevant consultation activities and studies, to consult with Canadians, experts and stakeholders, and make recommendations on the framework of a federal response on physician-assisted dying that respects the Constitution, the Charter of Rights and Freedoms, and the priorities of Canadians.

Guided by the Court's decision, the committee worked diligently to respond as requested, tabling its final report before its deadline on February 25, 2016. In the short timeframe that was prescribed in its mandate, the committee received testimony from more than 60 witnesses during more than 20 hours of public hearings and received over 100 written briefs. The committee's deliberations were also informed by all of the Canadian research and consultations that had already taken place on this complex issue.

In its report, the committee made 21 recommendations, including:

- “That medical assistance in dying be available to individuals with terminal and non-terminal grievous and irremediable medical conditions that cause enduring suffering that is intolerable to the individual in the circumstances of his or her condition”;
- “That the capacity of a person requesting medical assistance in dying to provide informed consent should be assessed using existing medical practices, emphasizing the need to pay particular attention to vulnerabilities in end-of-life circumstances”;
- “That the permission to use advance requests for medical assistance in dying be allowed any time after one is diagnosed with a condition that is reasonably likely to cause loss of competence or after a diagnosis of a grievous or irremediable condition but before the suffering becomes intolerable”; and
- “That physicians, nurse practitioners and registered nurses working under the direction of a physician to provide medical assistance in dying be exempted from sections 14 and section 241(b) of the Criminal Code.
- Pharmacists and other health care practitioners who provide services relating to medical assistance in dying, should also be exempted from sections 14 and section 241(b) of the Criminal Code.”

Standing Committee on Social Affairs, Science and Technology

Obesity in Canada: A Whole-of-Society Approach for a Healthier Canada

(Second Report [final] tabled in the Senate on March 1, 2016;

Sessional Paper No. 1/42-195S)

An extensive study conducted by the Standing Committee on Social Affairs, Science and Technology charts a course to a leaner, healthier future. Over the course of nearly two dozen meetings, the committee heard expert testimony from a range of Canadian and international stakeholders including individuals representing health and exercise professions, diet and health research sectors, food and beverage industries, Aboriginal groups, health charities, as well as the federal government.

The committee’s findings show the vast scope of this epidemic:

- Each year 48,000 to 66,000 Canadians die from conditions linked to excess weight;
- Nearly two thirds of adults and one third of children are obese or overweight; and
- Obesity costs Canada between $4.6 billion and $7.1 billion annually in health care and lost productivity.

The report describes an innovative, whole-of-society approach to address this important issue — and urges bold but practical steps that can and must be taken to help Canadians achieve and maintain healthy weights.

Standing Committee on Transport and Communications

Time for Change: The CBC/Radio-Canada in the Twenty-First Century

(Fourteenth Report [final] tabled in the Senate on July 20, 2015)

In December 2013, the Standing Committee on Transport and Communications received an Order of Reference to examine the challenges facing the CBC/Radio-Canada in the changing broadcasting and communications environment.

Over the course of more than 40 hearings, site visits, and fact-finding missions, the committee met with numerous witnesses and stakeholders, who provided insight into this complex subject. This report reflects what the committee learned and provides recommendations for both the public broadcaster and the government to address some of these challenges.

Part II – Committee Profiles 2015-2016

Standing Committee on Aboriginal Peoples

A. General Information

In fiscal year 2015-2016, the committee continued its work on a specific order of reference focusing on housing and infrastructure on reserves, spending the majority of its time on this study. In June 2015, the committee tabled its final report entitled On-Reserve Housing and Infrastructure: Recommendations for Change. At the beginning of the 42nd Parliament, the committee began a study on best practices and ongoing challenges relating to housing in First Nation and Inuit communities in Nunavut, Nunavik, Nunatsiavut and the Northwest Territories. This study is ongoing.

- ✧ The committee also studied two bills during the 2015-2016 fiscal year: Bill C-59 (an Act to implement certain provisions of the budget tabled in Parliament on April 21, 2015) and Bill C-63 (An Act to give effect to the Déline Final Self-Government Agreement and to make consequential and related amendments to other Acts).

Standing Committee on Agriculture and Forestry

A. General Information

During the fiscal year, two orders of reference were referred to the Standing Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

Health Canada's User Fee Proposal respecting pesticide cost recovery, pursuant to the User Fees Act, was referred to the committee and approved.

The committee continued its study on international market access priorities for the Canadian agricultural and agri-food sector, and held public hearings in Ottawa. As part of this same study, the committee travelled to Moncton, New Brunswick from March 13 to 16, 2016 to conduct public hearings and a fact-finding mission.

The committee tabled its report on bees and bee health in the production of honey, food and seed in Canada and requested a government response.

Standing Committee on Banking, Trade and Commerce

A. General Information

During the fiscal year, the committee considered one bill and the subject matter of a budget bill. It also engaged in two special studies and studied general matters related to the domestic financial system.

The committee held several meetings and heard from 27 witnesses in total as part of its study of Bill S-202, An Act to amend the Payment Card Networks Act (credit card acceptance fees). In their April 2015 report, the committee recommended that the bill not be further considered.

In May 2015, the committee studied the subject matter of those elements contained in Divisions 14 and 19 Part 3 of Bill C-59, An Act to implement certain provisions of the budget tabled in Parliament on April 21, 2015 and other measures. The committee held three meetings and concluded in its June report that, in light of witnesses' testimony, it accepted certain observations and had no objections to the proposed amendments in Divisions 14 and 19 of Part 3 of Bill C-59 becoming law.

In June 2015, after 14 months of study and consideration, the committee released their report on the use of digital currency. The committee held 19 meetings on the matter and received presentations from 55 witnesses at Ottawa committee meetings and a fact-finding trip to New York City. "Digital Currency : You Can't Flip This Coin!" contained eight recommendations, including a recommendation that the Government should require digital currency exchanges to meet the same requirements as other money services businesses in relation to Canada's anti-money laundering and anti-terrorist financing regimes.

As part of its general study regarding the present state of the domestic and international financial system, the committee undertook a brief study of the exchange rate in order to hear from experts about reasons for the fluctuations in the dollar and the implications for Canadians. Their report, "The Fluctuating Canadian Dollar: What it means for Canadians", was released in March 2016. Again, as part of its general study, the committee heard from the Governor of the Bank of Canada and the Parliamentary Budget Officer, in two separate meetings, in the Spring of 2016.

Standing Committee on Ethics and Conflict of Interest for Senators

A. General Information

The committee on Ethics and Conflict of Interest for Senators is established under the Rules of the Senate to be responsible for all matters relating to the Ethics and Conflict of Interest Code for Senators and to exercise general direction over the Senate Ethics Officer. The committee's responsibilities are further detailed in the Code. The Code was adopted by the Senate in 2005, and was amended since on four occasions: May 2008, May 2012, and April and June 2014. All those amendments resulted from recommendations made by the committee.

The membership of the committee is determined by a process that differs from that of all other committees. In accordance with the provisions of the Code, two members are elected by secret ballot in the respective caucuses of the government and opposition. A fifth member is then chosen by these four members. The chair of the committee must be chosen by at least four members of the committee. The members of the committee are constituted as an Intersessional Authority during prorogation and dissolution periods and until a new committee is appointed in the new parliamentary session.

Standing Committee on Energy, the Environment and Natural Resources

A. General Information

During the fiscal year, the committee considered four bills and engaged in two special studies.

The committee held several meetings and heard from 16 witnesses in total, including the Minister of Natural Resources, as part of its study of Bill C-46, An Act to amend the National Energy Board Act and the Canada Oil and Gas Operations Act. In June 2015 the committee reported the bill without amendment.

In June 2015, after 17 months of study and consideration, the committee released their report on non-renewable and renewable energy development including energy storage, distribution, transmission, consumption and other emerging technologies in Canada's three northern territories. During the course of the study, the committee held 18 hearings and heard from 46 witnesses consisting of federal, territorial and municipal officials, the Alaskan Energy Authority, industry representatives, energy associations, aboriginal governments, territorial electric utilities, energy experts, business leaders and environmental groups. The committee also travelled for a week in the territories visiting each of the capitals and also smaller communities such as Kimmirut and Rankin Inlet in Nunavut and Whatì in NWT to listen to community leaders.

"Powering Canada's Territories" contained five recommendations to the federal government to help improve the energy circumstances of the territories. The recommendations aimed at improving energy efficiency and conservation, enhancing community-based energy solutions and coordinating federal resources under a central hub.

Bill C-61, An Act to amend the Canada National Marine Conservation Areas Act, Bill C-64, An Act to amend the Canada-Nova Scotia Offshore Petroleum Resources Accord Implementation Act and Bill C-72, An Act to amend the Canada National Parks Act were considered and all three were reported without amendment.

In April 2016, the committee began a new study to examine the effects of transitioning to a low carbon economy. The committee continues their public hearings and fact-finding meetings on this pivotal issue, with the intention of making recommendations to assist the federal government in meeting its carbon reduction objectives by no later than September 30, 2017.

Standing Committee on Fisheries and Oceans

A. General Information

The Senate Committee on Fisheries and Oceans was authorized on December 9, 2013, to examine the regulation of aquaculture, current challenges and future prospects for the industry in Canada. Hearings for the study began in January 2014 and continued until June 2015. During the course of the study, fact-finding missions were conducted in British Columbia, the East coast of Canada and in Scotland and Norway. The committee also held public hearings in Nanaimo, BC, Gander, NL, Halifax, NS, and Moncton, NB. The committee's final report on aquaculture, comprising three volumes, was tabled with the Clerk of the Senate on July 30, 2015.

On June 3, 2015, the committee examined Bill S-224, An Act respecting National Seal and Seafood Products Day, and reported on it to the Senate with five amendments. The amendments had the effect of changing the title to National Seal Products Day. On June 10, 2015, the committee examined Bill C-555, An Act respecting the Marine Mammal Regulations, and reported on it to the Senate without amendment. On March 10, 2016, as Bill S-224 was not passed prior to the dissolution of the previous Session of Parliament, it was re-introduced in the current Session as Bill S-208, An Act respecting National Seal Products Day. The committee examined Bill S-208 and reported on it with an amendment to substitute the word "Indigenous" for the word "Aboriginal" in four instances in the English version.

Standing Committee on Internal Economy, Budgets and Administration

A. General Information

The committee has a mandate to consider all matters of a financial or administrative nature relating to the internal management of the Senate. It reviews and authorizes the budget applications of committees, sets guidelines and policies on items such as senators' travel and research expenditures, and determines the propriety of any use of Senate resources. It should be noted the committee is authorized to carry out its mandate on its own initiative rather than being dependent on an order of reference from the Senate (Rule 12-7(1)).

Standing Committee on Legal and Constitutional Affairs

A. General Information

The Standing Committee on Legal and Constitutional Affairs has historically been, and continues to be, one of the Senate's busiest committees. The vast majority of the committee's work entails the consideration of legislation, although the committee sometimes undertakes in-depth special studies on areas related to its mandate.

During this fiscal year, during the second session of the 41st Parliament, the committee studied and reported on six government bills and one private members' bill. During the first session of the 42nd Parliament, the committee began a special study on delays in Canada's criminal justice system holding 10 meetings and hearing from 41 witnesses on the subject during this fiscal year.

Standing Committee on National Finance

A. General Information

The committee was first created in May 1919 as the Committee on Finance, and, in 1968, it was renamed the Committee on National Finance. The committee's work is focused on matters relating to government spending. As stated in the Rules of the Senate (Rule 12-7(5)), the committee has a mandate to examine matters related to federal estimates generally, including:

- the public accounts and the reports of the Auditor General; and
- government finance.

The committee has historically been, and continues to be, one of the Senate's busiest committees. A large part of the committee's work is devoted to a review of the government's estimates and issues arising out of that review.

Study of the Estimates and Legislation

As is customary, much of the committee's attention was focused on the estimates, which outline the government's expenditure plans. The committee held meetings to examine various aspects of the government's planned expenditures for 2015-2016 and 2016-2017, including the Main Estimates 2015-2016, Supplementary Estimates (A), 2015-2016, Supplementary Estimates (B), 2015-2016, and Supplementary Estimates (C), 2015-2016. In March 2016, the committee also undertook a preliminary examination of the Main Estimates 2016-2017 and tabled an interim report to the Senate by which a range of issues were brought to the attention of the Senate by the committee.

Two bills were also reported by the committee:

- Bill C-21, An Act to control the administrative burden that regulations impose on businesses, without amendment; and
- Bill C-59, Economic Action Plan 2015 Act, No. 1, without amendment.

With respect to Bill C-59, the committee undertook the study of its subject matter before it was introduced in the Senate. This allowed the committee to hear witnesses on the bill prior to its being read for the first time in the Senate. The committee tabled a report providing a summary of the testimony heard during the pre-study and then proceeded directly to clause-by-clause consideration when the bill was referred to it.

Standing Committee on National Security and Defence

A. General Information

The Senate Standing Committee on National Security and Defence continued to hear witnesses on its general mandate to examine and report on Canada's national security and defence policies, practices, circumstances and capabilities.

In June 2015, the committee tabled a report concluding its study on the policies, practices, and collaborative efforts of the Canada Border Services Agency in determining admissibility and inadmissibility into Canada. The committee learned of several policy and operational challenges facing the CBSA and other government actors involved in the process. The committee believes it is necessary that relevant departments and agencies involved in the process of identifying and denying entry to inadmissible persons to Canada have access to timely, accurate and relevant information through clear information sharing arrangements and improved coordination. With its findings, the committee made ten recommendations to enhance Canada's border security.

In July 2015, the committee tabled a report in relation to its study of security threats to Canada. In its interim report, the committee examined terrorist recruitment, operations, financing, prosecutions and other aspects of the security threats facing Canada. The committee made a series of recommendations relating to terrorist groups, extremism, working with community groups, programs to support families who report radicalization; funding of terrorism; etc.

Finally, the committee conducted legislative work, including Bill C-51, the Anti-terrorism Act, 2015, which was reported back without amendment but with observations, as well as the subject matter of those elements contained in Divisions 2 and 17 of Part 3 of Bill C-59, An Act to implement certain provisions of the budget tabled in Parliament on April 21, 2015 and other measures.

Subcommittee on Veterans Affairs

A. General Information

The Subcommittee on Veterans Affairs continued to hear witnesses on its broad mandate related to services and benefits provided to veterans and their families.

The subcommittee also completed the first phase of a study on the medical, social, and operational impacts of mental health issues affecting serving and retired members of the Canadian Armed Forces, including operational stress injuries (OSIs) such as post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD). This interim report provided an overview of what the subcommittee learned to date as part of its ongoing study and offers some preliminary thoughts on the issue.

In addition to its special study work, the subcommittee was delegated certain legislative business from the Senate Standing Committee on National Security and Defence, including a pre-study of certain elements of the 2015 Budget Implementation Act.

Special Joint Committee on Physician-Assisted Dying

A. General Information

In February 2015, the Supreme Court of Canada concluded in Carter v. Canada (Attorney General) that in certain circumstances, the provisions of the Criminal Code that prohibit medical assistance in dying violate the rights of individuals that are protected by the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms.

On December 11, 2015, the Senate and the House of Commons passed motions to establish a special joint committee whose mandate was to:

Review the report of the External Panel on Options for a Legislative Response to Carter v. Canada and other recent relevant consultation activities and studies, to consult with Canadians, experts and stakeholders, and make recommendations on the framework of a federal response on physician-assisted dying that respects the Constitution, the Charter of Rights and Freedoms, and the priorities of Canadians.

Between January and February 2016, the special joint committee held 16 meetings and heard from 61 witnesses. It also received over 120 written submissions. Guided by the Court's decision, the committee worked diligently to respond as requested, and tabled its final report in February 2016, making 21 recommendations designed to assist the government in formulating a legislative framework. The committee's recommendations identified amendments to the Criminal Code, proposed eligibility criteria for medical assistance in dying, and included a number of substantive and procedural safeguards and oversight provisions.

Standing Committee on Rules, Procedures and the Rights of Parliament

A. General Information

In 2015-2016, the Standing Committee on Rules, Procedures and the Rights of Parliament completed three substantive reports. The seventh report during the second session of the 41st Parliament dealt with parliamentary privilege in Canada in the 21st century, and marked the first time a parliamentary body in Canada had completed a comprehensive study of the topic. The committee also reported two bills: C-586 (without amendment) and C-518 (with amendments). A case of privilege relating to leaks of the Auditor General's report on the audit of senators' expenses was also referred to the committee. Work on this study was interrupted by dissolution. The Senate referred the matter back to the committee at the start of the 42nd Parliament, and hearings resumed during 2016-2017.

Standing Committee on Social Affairs, Science and Technology

A. General Information

The Standing Senate Committee on Social Affairs, Science and Technology has the mandate to examine legislation and to study issues related to cultural affairs and the arts, social and labour matters, health and welfare, pensions and housing. It is also responsible for considering fitness and amateur sport, employment and immigration, consumer affairs, and youth affairs.

During the spring of 2015, the committee completed public hearings on its study on the increasing incidence of obesity in Canada. The committee also examined and reported on 3 bills (See Chart B) and studied and reported on the subject matter of Division 15 of Part 3 of Bill C-59, An Act to implement certain provisions of the budget tabled in Parliament on April 21, 2015 and other measures, which amended certain provisions in the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act.

Shortly after resuming its activities in January 2016 in the new Parliament, the committee tabled its final report on obesity in Canada. The report entitled: Obesity in Canada: A Whole-of-Society Approach for a Healthier Canada, contained 22 recommendations. The committee then began a new study on the effects of dementia in our society, holding several public hearings on the subject.

Standing Committee on Transport and Communications

A. General Information

The Standing Committee on Transport and Communications commenced 2015-2016 by drafting and subsequently tabling a report on the challenges faced by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation in relation to the changing environment of broadcasting and communications. In July 2015, it tabled Time for Change: The CBC/Radio-Canada in the Twenty-first Century with 22 recommendations dealing with programming, funding, governance and the crown corporation's general mandate. During this time, the committee also held meetings and reported on three items referred to it by the Senate: Bill C-52 and Bill C-627 and a user fee on fixed-satellite services and broadcasting-satellite services spectrum.

Following the Forty-Second general election, the committee was reconstituted in December 2015 and obtained from the Senate the authorization to hear from three ministers whose departments fall within the scope of the committee's jurisdiction regarding their ministerial mandates letters. Since the publishing of these letters from the Prime Minister is a new development, the committee invited the Minister of Transport and the Minister of Canadian Heritage to appear on February 17, 2016, to speak about their upcoming plans to fulfil their assigned responsibilities.

At the end of the year, the committee received an order of reference to study the transportation of crude oil in Canada and hearings were scheduled to begin in April 2016.

Part III – Committee Expenditures

Detailed Committee Expenditure Report for 2015-2016

Senate committees may apply for a budget, for example to engage the services of writers/editors or communications advisors, or to travel. Budgets must be approved by the Senate. In addition, certain expenditures are charged to a centralized budget managed by the Committees Directorate. These include video conferencing fees and travel expenses for witnesses, which are both included in column B below. Other expenses which are charged to this centralized budget are included in Column C below. These are general postage, coffee/tea/juice and working meals at committee meetings in Ottawa, and committee travel immunization charges.
