

I am writing this email to give my feedback on how regulations should be created for airplanes in terms of food allergies. I feel that all nuts should be banned from planes. I have two young nephews that are deadly anaphylactic to all tree nuts. That means they could die if they come into contact with them. This is a very serious condition and all precautions should be taken to protect people who have these allergies. It is so stressful for my sister to travel with them, she actually avoids travel because of this.

Please support them by banning all nuts on planes, please help prevent these kids from dying from something so senseless.

Thank you,
