

There should be appropriate accommodations made to make travel safer for all Canadians with allergies. This means that those with tree nut allergies and/or allergies to peanuts should not be exposed to food items that “may contain” nuts on flights or other forms of public transportation where meals are served.

Thank you,
Sarah Sturtevant
(mother of highly allergic child)

Sent from Windows Mail