Nominate Someone

Did you know?

Anyone can nominate someone for an Order of Canada, a Decoration for Bravery, a Meritorious Service Decoration or the Governor General's Caring Canadian Award. It is our responsibility as citizens to get involved in the nomination process to ensure that all great contributions to this country are recognized and remembered.

Part One: Write an Essay

- Choose someone, from your community or larger region, who you think deserves to be recognized with an honour or award.
- Research these honours and awards to be able to select the one that best suits the person you chose.
- In 500 words or so (approximately one page), make a compelling case for why you think he or she should receive this honour or award.
- In your introduction or conclusion, indicate how this person could be a great role model for you.

Part Two: Nominate Someone

If you want to nominate your chosen candidate, review the eligibility criteria and nomination process at gg.ca/Nominate, then submit your nomination form to the Office of the Secretary to the Governor General.
