

Celebrating EXCELLENCE!

Spring 2011

It gives me great pleasure to connect with you through the Order of Canada Newsletter, the first edition since my installation as governor general.

Last October, during my installation speech, I issued a call to service to all Canadians, with the aim of fostering a smarter, more caring nation. Ours is a common cause, and the pillars of my mandate—families and children; learning and innovation; and philanthropy and volunteerism—support our vision of a nation where all can succeed, contribute and develop their talents to their fullest potential. It is my hope that we can extend this vision to 2017, when we will celebrate the 150th birthday of our Canadian Confederation, and the 50th anniversary of the Order of Canada.

In reflecting on the true meaning of the Order of Canada, as well as on the range of your achievements, it occurs to me that the Order is a living example of the kind of cross-cutting, interdisciplinary community we must form in order to thrive in the 21st century. I want to invite members of the Order of Canada to become full participants in our vision of building a smarter and more caring nation. Your wisdom, ideas and talent are essential to the country we all desire.

One of the true privileges of this unique Office is the ability it provides to connect with so many outstanding Canadians, individuals who have given the very best of themselves. I was delighted to have met a number of you at Rideau Hall last November, when I presided over my first Order of Canada investiture ceremony as governor general, and I look forward to meeting many of you during my mandate and as part of my visits to your communities. Together, let's aspire to a smarter, more caring Canada.

A SMART AND CARING NATION: A CALL TO SERVICE

On October 1, 2010, in his installation speech, His Excellency the Right Honourable David Johnston, Governor General of Canada, identified three pillars that he will focus on during his mandate:

SUPPORTING FAMILIES AND CHILDREN

“By supporting families and children, we ensure that Canada’s future is secure. Families are vital to the growth of this nation, regardless of background or circumstances. By ensuring children have the opportunity to develop and succeed, by giving aid to families in need, and by showing our support, we are creating a bright future for our country.”

The Military Family Resource Centre at CFB Gagetown in Oromocto, New Brunswick, on November 9, 2010. Their Excellencies visited with military family members who benefit from the centre.

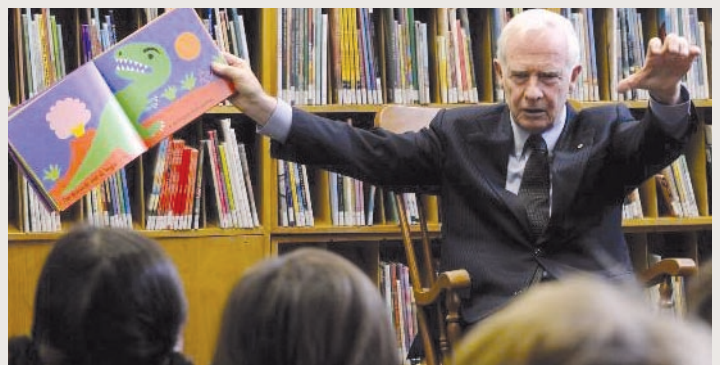

Reception for the Children’s Miracle Network 2010 Champions at Rideau Hall, on November 7, 2010. The reception honoured remarkable children who have triumphed over severe medical challenges.

REINFORCING LEARNING AND INNOVATION

“Life itself is a constant series of lessons; whether we are at school, at home or at work, we are constantly learning. Similarly, our lives are spent thinking of new ways to do old things, seeing things differently and succeeding where others have not. By promoting education and innovation—in schools, government, business or charitable organizations—and by reaching our full potential, we can achieve any goal we set out to accomplish as a nation.”

St. Mary Professional Learning School, Calgary, Alberta, November 29, 2010. The school launched a pilot project in 2009, where students use computers to improve their learning methods.

Dewson Street Junior Public School, Toronto, Ontario, December 3, 2010. This bilingual community school provides literacy programs that use the arts as a medium for learning.

ENCOURAGING PHILANTHROPY AND VOLUNTEERISM

“It is my hope that our country will continue to develop a culture of caring. By giving generously, we not only help others, but we also inspire others to give, creating goodwill that can stretch across the nation. Canadians are generous givers; I am proud to see neighbours helping neighbours. Through volunteerism and philanthropy, we have the potential to change the world, one man, woman and child at a time.”

BEYOND SPACE: AN ENVIRONMENTAL FOCUS TO ROBERTA BONDAR'S LATEST VENTURE

By Dr. Roberta Bondar, O.C., O.Ont. (Invested in 1992)

January 2012 will mark the 20th anniversary of Dr. Roberta Bondar's space voyage aboard Discovery. An Officer of the Order of Canada since 1992, Dr. Bondar was the world's first neurologist and Canada's first woman in space. Her most recent venture—the Roberta Bondar Foundation—exemplifies an extraordinary commitment to advancing societal well-being, a value shared by all invested in the Order.

The Foundation's signature activities focus on a suite of learner-friendly approaches to understanding and appreciating the environment through photographic exploration. "Photography is a universal language," says Dr. Bondar. "It is a creative and stimulating means to understanding our world. As we engage in a photograph's scientific dimensions, we gain new knowledge and understanding."

Dr. Bondar's exhibit, entitled 'Within the Landscape: Art Respecting Life,' will be in several locations over the coming months. For dates and information, please visit www.therobertabondarfoundation.org.

MEMBERS OF THE ORDER TAKE WOMEN'S HEALTH CARE TO HEART

By Dr. Elaine Jolly, O.C., O.Ont., Professor of Obstetrics & Gynecology, University of Ottawa, and Medical Director, Shirley E. Greenberg Women's Health Centre (Invested in 1999)

I read, with great interest, the Governor General's message on International Women's Day. I would like to take this opportunity to update members on one vital issue that affects Canadian women's health: the dangers of smoking and second-hand smoke.

As a physician and advocate for women's health, I am greatly troubled by the fact that 26 per cent of women in Canada smoke. What is even more troubling are the smoking rates amongst some of our nation's most vulnerable: teen girls (31 per cent), single mothers (71 per cent) and Aboriginal peoples (57 per cent). If the current rates of tobacco use continue, approximately 1 million Canadians will die over the next 20 years as a direct result of smoking and second-hand smoke.¹

Thanks to public awareness campaigns, it has become well-known that smoking contributes to cancer, heart disease, stroke and other health problems. What is less known is how smoking and its related heart health problems affect women differently than men.

Few realize that heart disease kills about seven times as many women as breast cancer, and that each year more women than men die from stroke. In fact, as women age and their estrogen levels drop, their risk of heart disease rises. Overall, women are more likely than men to die following a heart attack.

I have been collaborating with a fellow member of the Order of Canada to look into how we could develop a smoking cessation program especially for women. Dr. Andrew Pipe, C.M. (invested in 2003), Chief of the Division of Prevention and Rehabilitation at the University of Ottawa Heart Institute, is one of Canada's leading experts in cardiovascular disease prevention and smoking cessation.

Together, we are working on adapting his Ottawa Model for Smoking Cessation at the Heart Institute for the patients I see at the Ottawa Hospital Women's Health Centre.

We have learned that one key to the success of smoking cessation for women is the support of their community, which not only includes the medical profession, but also their support network.

Therefore, I call on you, my fellow members of the Order of Canada, to reach out to your community, and to offer support and moral leadership. Women are the backbone of society and their wellness is linked to our success at building a smart and caring nation.

ORDER OF CANADA PASSAGES

We saw the passing of a number of members, exceptional Canadians who made contributions to this country. They will be remembered.

Bruce Beatty, C.M.

Mr. Beatty passed away on March 21, 2011, at the age of 88. Beginning with his beautiful snowflake design for the Order of Canada, he helped to shape many of the symbols of the Canadian Honours System. His knowledge and passion for honours made him widely respected as an authority in Canada and overseas. Also a valued member of the Chancellery for many years, it was his personal boast that he had attended all but one of the Order of Canada investiture ceremonies, from the creation of the Order until he fell ill last summer. He will be greatly missed.

NEWS FROM THE CHANCELLERY OF HONOURS

Queen Elizabeth II Diamond Jubilee Medal

On February 3, 2011, the Governor General announced that Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II had approved the creation of a new commemorative medal, and unveiled its design. The Queen Elizabeth II Diamond Jubilee Medal will mark the 2012 celebrations of the 60th anniversary of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II's accession to the Throne.

"At the same time that this medal honours The Queen, it also affords an opportunity for the Crown to recognize deserving Canadians who have contributed so much to this nation, and who have helped to define what it means to be Canadian," noted His Excellency in his remarks delivered on the occasion.

The Chancellery of Honours will administer the Queen Elizabeth II Diamond Jubilee Medal program.

The inaugural presentation ceremony of the Diamond Jubilee Medal will take place in 2012. Further details on the eligibility and selection criteria will be announced in due course at www.gg.ca/diamondjubilee.

APPOINTMENT OF A NEW SECRETARY TO THE GOVERNOR GENERAL

We welcome Stephen Wallace, who assumed the position of secretary to the governor general and secretary general of the Order of Canada, on February 1, 2011. The secretary is responsible for the viceregal program; holds the title and responsibilities of herald chancellor; and acts as the senior advisor to the governor general.

Mr. Wallace grew up in Halifax and Ottawa, studied the arts and business administration, and has focused much of his career on international affairs and public administration. His early work as a teacher, volunteer, diplomat and aid worker concentrated mainly on Africa and Central America.

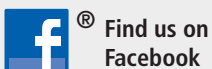

Mr. Wallace spent many years with the Canadian International Development Agency, where he managed several reconstruction programs and served as the vice-president of the Afghanistan Task Force. As a senior public servant, Mr. Wallace served as assistant secretary of government operations at the Treasury Board Secretariat, and most recently, as associate deputy minister for the Department of Canadian Heritage.
